

Grantsmanship Workshop I

A Panel Discussion on Fellowship Application

Wednesday, February 27, 2019

12:00pm to 1:00pm, refreshments to follow

Phillips Hall, Dean's Conference Room 411

Panelists

Joel Blecher, Assistant Professor of History, received the NEH fellowship, the ACLS fellowship, and the Kluge Fellowship at the Library of Congress for his project on Islam and the Spice Trade during the 2018 grant cycle.

Sarah Wagner, Associate Professor of Anthropology, received a Guggenheim Fellowship in 2017 and an NEH Public Scholar award to complete her third book, What Remains: Bringing America's Missing Home from the Vietnam War.

Gayle Wald, Professor of English and American Studies, received NEH Faculty Fellowship awards for two of her books and also received a Guggenheim Fellowship.

Lynn Westwater, Associate Professor of Italian, received an NEH Scholarly Editions and Translations grant in 2016-2017.

About CCAS Grantsmanship Workshop

The CCAS Grantsmanship Workshop is a new event series focusing on the techniques and strategies for successful grant and fellowship applications. The event series will include panel discussions by experienced colleagues, presentations from funding agencies, as well as other types of events that could boost the competitiveness of grant and fellowship applications from CCAS faculty.